REPTON SCHOOL IMPROVES EFFICIENCY WITH CLASS CHANGE SYSTEM!

Commentary by Robert Griffiths, Technical Manager of Repton School

Repton School is an Independent School, with over six hundred pupils, in the peaceful village of Repton in South Derbyshire. Being such a large school means having multiple sites across the community and therefore a need for an efficient class change system. Previously, Repton School did not have separate bells for different areas class changes, creating unnecessary noise and disruption.

Replacing the old bells with Bodet's Harmonys Class Change System and speakers, has enabled the school to send personalised messages to individuals and different areas, such as wet play or evacuation. The original wireless speakers have been replaced with a centralised network system, installing sounders in classrooms and around the school.

The customisable solution improves communication across the premises, and keeps the school running on time, boosting efficiency. Importantly, it ensures safety with the sounders distinguished from the fire alarm, allowing time for a safe evacuation.

Being an independent school, Repton operate on a varying schedule. "The system is programmable so that it can account for the changing timetables over Summer and Winter, it is very successful," comments Robert. The class change alerts can also be cancelled automatically during school holidays, saving staff time.

As well as playing different types of bells, the Class Change System offers the ability to play music, "this was particularly enjoyed by the staff," notes Robert.

Repton school will be expanding their range of Bodet services to include lockdown alerts in the new year.
